The contributions of the student editors in this issue have been written under the supervision of individual members of the law faculty. Publication of signed contributions from any source does not signify adoption of the views expressed either by the LAW REVIEW or its editors collectively.

Jefferson Barnes Fordham, of Greensboro, N. C., has been selected by the faculty of the Law School as Editor-in-Chief of the LAW REVIEW for next year.

THE HILL LAW REVIEW PRIZE was established last year by George Watts Hill of the Durham Bar, to be presented to the student editor who makes the best total contribution to the LAW REVIEW during the year.

The winner of the prize for this year is Algernon L. Butler.

Have you considered the matter of having your LAW REVIEWS bound? There are on the market at reasonable prices some very good binders for keeping the current numbers of each volume. In addition, when each volume is complete, it should be bound in some permanent form in order to preserve its usefulness for future reference.

The LAW REVIEW will be glad to investigate the cost of temporary binders and of permanent binding. Subscribers who are interested can assist us by writing to us. This will not obligate the subscriber in any way and will give us some idea of the number who are interested.
