

UNC
SCHOOL OF LAW

NORTH CAROLINA LAW REVIEW

---

Volume 16 | Number 3

Article 7

---

4-1-1938

Book Notes

North Carolina Law Review

Follow this and additional works at: <http://scholarship.law.unc.edu/nclr>

Part of the Law Commons

---

Recommended Citation

North Carolina Law Review, Book Notes, 16 N.C. L. REV. 326 (1938).

Available at: <http://scholarship.law.unc.edu/nclr/vol16/iss3/7>

This Book Review is brought to you for free and open access by Carolina Law Scholarship Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in North Carolina Law Review by an authorized editor of Carolina Law Scholarship Repository. For more information, please contact law\_repository@unc.edu.

and of the weak sentimentality of the press and the public, which is largely responsible for America leading the world in unpunished criminals.

KENNETH C. ROYALL.

Goldsboro, N. C.

BOOK NOTES

Cases and Materials on the Legal Profession. By Elliott E. Cheatham. Chicago: The Foundation Press, Inc. 1938. Pp. xviii, 558.

Handbook of the Law of Partnership and Other Unincorporated Associations. By Judson A. Crane. St. Paul: West Publishing Co. 1938. Pp. x, 535. $5.00.

A new Hornbook presenting a picture of the partnership form of association, together with variations such as the limited partnership, joint-stock company, business trust, and non-profit association.

Research in Administrative Law—Scope and Method. By Oliver P. Field. New York: Committee on Public Administration of the Social Science Research Council. 1938. Pp. 48. $ .50.

An outline of suggested research projects for students of law and of public administration.

Local Democracy and Crime Control. By Arthur C. Millspaugh. Washington: The Brookings Institution. 1936. Pp. xii, 263. $2.00.

The author in the main seeks to correlate and make available to the general reader the knowledge already derived from the spade work of many original studies. He outlines the general features of the relationship between state and local government as applied to crime control; points out remedies for their ills; and finally indicates a program for attaining a definite reorganization goal.

The Criminals We Deserve. By Henry T. F. Rhodes. New York: Oxford University Press. 1937. Pp. xi, 257. $2.50.

In this small volume the author develops the theme that society gets the criminals it deserves. "We mass-produce crime," he says, and then build up expensive techniques of criminal investigation to protect us from our own productions. These twin conceptions are interestingly, if somewhat sketchedly, developed through a series of illustrative cases of local, national, and international significance in recent years.

The Interstate Commerce Commission. Part Four. By I. L. Sharfman. New York: The Commonwealth Fund. 1937. Pp. xii, 550, $4.50.

This fifth and final volume of a study begun more than twelve years ago not only provides a detailed analysis of the Commission's organization and procedure, including an incisive examination of current proposals for reform, but also presents the author's carefully drawn conclusions with respect to the nature and significance of the Commission's substantive powers and activities and its general status as a functioning tribunal.

