The Prosecutors and Politics Project Study of Campaign Contributions in Prosecutorial Elections

The Prosecutors and Politics Project has compiled a database that identifies who contributed to prosecutor elections and the amount of their donations. Campaign contribution information is often publicly available, but the format of that information varies from state to state, the information is often scattered across multiple sources and the information is sometimes incomplete. The Project has compile this fragmented data into a single nationwide database that will allow sustained study about who contributes to prosecutor campaigns and the amount of contributions.

This report summarizes and analyzes some of the data from the database. The report will be updated as more data is added to the database and analyzed. This report was last updated on June 10, 2019.

The complete data set can be found at the University of North Carolina Dataverse (<https://dataverse.unc.edu/>).

Questions about the database, this analysis, or the Prosecutors and Politics Project should be directed to Carissa Byrne Hessick chessick@email.unc.edu Professor Hessick is the Ransdell Distinguished Professor of Law at the University of North Carolina School of Law and the Director of the Prosecutors and Politics Project.

Results from Alabama's 2016 District Attorney Election

Alabama elects one district attorney per judicial circuit. There are 42 circuits. Many circuits contain a single county, but others contain up to five counties. District attorneys serve six year terms.

In the 2016 election, 29 district attorneys ran unopposed. Twelve of those unopposed district attorneys reported no campaign contributions. But other unopposed candidates raised tens of thousands of dollars.

Arkansas

Results from State of Arkansas 2014 Prosecuting Attorney Election

Arkansas elects one prosecuting attorney per judicial district. There are 28 districts in the state. Districts contain as few as one and as many as six counties. Prosecuting attorneys serve four year terms.

In the 2014 election, all but two prosecuting attorneys ran unopposed. Seventeen elections reported no campaign contributions, and overall contribution totals were low. The two highest grossing candidates each lost their elections.

Florida

Results from State of Florida 2016 District Attorney Election

Florida elects one district attorney per judicial circuit; there are twenty judicial circuits, some of which contain only a single county, but others contain as many as seven.

Of the 20 district attorneys elected in 2016, 13 ran unopposed. All but one of the elections involved campaign contributions. And one of the candidates with the largest amount of campaign contributions ran unopposed.

Georgia

Results from State of Georgia 2014 and 2016 District Attorney Elections

Georgia elects one district attorney per judicial district; the state has 49 judicial district. The state does not elect all of their district attorneys in the same year. While most districts held a DA election in 2016, a significant number held elections in 2014.

In their most recent election, 35 district attorney candidates ran unopposed. In 34 of the most recent 49 elections, the races did not involve any reported campaign contributions. Whether an election involved campaign contributions was strongly correlated with whether the election was contested.

Idaho

Results from State of Idaho 2016 Prosecuting Attorney Election

Idaho selects one Prosecuting Attorney per county. Two of the 44 counties did not have any candidates run for the office, and so the office was filled by appointment. Of the 42 Prosecuting Attorneys elected in the state during the 2016 election cycle, 29 ran unopposed. Twenty-three elections involved no reported campaign contributions; every election without reported campaign contributions was uncontested.

*No candidates ran for the position of Prosecuting Attorney in Camas County or Clark County. As a result, a prosecutor was appointed to the position.

Illinois

Results from State of Illinois' 2016 State's Attorneys Election

Illinois elects one State's Attorney per county; the state has 102 counties. In the 2016 election, 52 candidates ran unopposed. There was significant disparity in the campaign contributions for the various races. For example, the Cook County race involved more than $6.5 million in campaign contributions. But 48 of these races had no reported campaign contributions.

Results from State of Kentucky 2012 Commonwealth Attorney Election

Kentucky elects one commonwealth attorney per judicial circuit. While some judicial circuits contain only one county, others are comprised of up to four counties. Commonwealth attorneys serve six-year terms. In 2012, all but 11 of the 57 commonwealth attorneys ran unopposed. Only 13 of the 57 races involved campaign contributions.

Maine

Results from Maine's 2014 District Attorney Elections

The State of Maine elects one district attorney per district. There are eight districts. Some districts contain a single county, but others contain up to four counties. District attorneys serve four-year terms.

In the 2014 election, five district attorneys ran unopposed. Five of the 13 candidates reported no campaign contributions; in four districts no candidate reported any campaign contributions.

Maryland

Results from Maryland's 2014 State's Attorney Elections

Maryland elects one state's attorney for each of its 24 counties. In 2014, 14 of those elections were uncontested. Whether a candidate received campaign contributions was highly correlated with whether he or she was running in a contested election. However, the candidate who raised the most money was unopposed.

Montana

Results from Montana's 2014 and 2016 County Attorney Elections

Montana elects one county attorney per county. There are 56 counties in the state. Montana allows its counties to either elect or appoint prosecutors. Two counties—Carter County and Petroleum County—appoint their prosecutors. Most counties held election for county attorney in 2014, but a few held their election in 2016. County attorneys serve 4 year-terms.

In the 2014 and 2016 elections, 45 county attorneys ran unopposed. Thirty-four of the unopposed candidates reported no campaign contributions, and the candidates in one contested election also reported no contributions. The candidate who received the most money from contributions was unopposed.

New York

Results from State of New York District Attorney Elections, 2014-17

New York elects one district attorney per county. Different counties elect their district attorneys in different years; every election cycle includes at least one New York county holding an election for district attorney. Of the 62 district attorney elections that occurred in the years 2014 through 2017, 31 elections were uncontested. All but ten of those elections involved reported campaign contributions.

North Carolina

Results from North Carolina's 2014 and 2016 District Attorney Elections

North Carolina elects one district attorney per district. There are 44 districts. Some districts contain a single county, but others contain up to seven counties. District attorneys serve four-year terms.

In the 2014 and 2016 elections, 27 district attorneys ran unopposed. Six of those unopposed district attorneys reported no campaign contributions. But other unopposed candidates raised tens of thousands of dollars.

North Dakota

Results from State of North Dakota 2014 State's Attorney Election

North Dakota selects one state's attorney per county, for a total of 53 in the state. Counties are permitted to select their state's attorney via appointment rather than by election. Two counties have opted for appointment rather than election. And no candidates decided to run in the 2014 election in a third county.

All but three state's attorneys ran unopposed. Three counties were unable to provide campaign finance reports. Of the remaining counties, none reported campaign contributions for any election.

* Golden Valley and Steele Counties appoint, rather than elect their prosecutors. No candidate ran for state's attorney in Billings County.

 Unable to obtain campaign finance records. Barnes County and LaMoure County reported their reports missing; Traill County had already destroyed their records.

Oklahoma

Results from Oklahoma's 2014 District Attorney Election

Oklahoma elects one district attorney per district. There are 27 districts. Some districts contain a single county, but others contain up to six counties. District attorneys serve four-year terms.

In the 2014 election, seventeen district attorneys ran unopposed. Every contested election involved campaign contributions. Thirteen of the unopposed district attorneys reported no campaign contributions; but one unopposed candidate raised tens of thousands of dollars.

Oregon

Results from Oregon's 2014 and 2016 District Attorney Elections

Oregon elects one district attorney per county. There are 36 counties in the state. Some counties held an election for district attorney in 2014; others held an election in 2016.

In the 2014 and 2016 elections, 28 district attorneys ran unopposed. Twenty-four of those unopposed candidates reported no campaign contributions. And in two of the contested elections, none of the candidates reported any campaign contributions.

South Carolina

Results from State of South Carolina's 2014 and 2016 Solicitor Elections

South Carolina elects one solicitor per district. There are sixteen districts. Districts are comprised of multiple counties. Ten districts held elections in 2016; the remaining six districts held elections in 2014. Solicitors serve four-year terms.

Twelve of the sixteen solicitors ran unopposed. But only one unopposed solicitor failed to accept any campaign contributions. The candidate who raised the most money was unopposed.

Tennessee

Results from State of Tennessee 2014 District Attorney Election

Tennessee elects one commonwealth attorney per judicial district. While some judicial districts contain only one county, others are comprised of up to seven counties. District attorneys serve eight-year terms. In 2014, only 14 of the 31 attorneys ran in contested elections. Nineteen of the 31 races involved campaign contributions.

Wisconsin

Results from the 2016 Wisconsin District Attorney Election

Wisconsin elects one district attorney for each county, except for Menominee and Shawano counties, which share a district attorney. Of the 71 district attorneys who were elected in 2016, 50 ran unopposed. Twenty-eight of those 71 elections involved no reported contributions; and all but eight of those elections with no reported contributions has only a single candidate. The highest grossing candidate was also unopposed.
