Argument: The Oral Argument Before the Supreme Court in Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka 1952-55. Leon Friedman, editor. New York: Chelsea House Publishers, 1969. Pp. 601. $14.95.

This volume contains the full text of the oral arguments in the Brown case, all the lower court decisions in the school desegregation cases, and pertinent Supreme Court opinions and orders. Professor Kenneth Clark contributes a comprehensive introductory essay on the sociology of the Brown case, and Professor Yale Kamisar discusses the legal significance of the decisions.

Six Trials. Robert S. Brumbaugh, editor. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Company, 1969. Pp. 126. $6.95.

Six famous trials—those of Socrates, Galileo Galilei, John Brown, Alfred Dreyfus, Sacco and Vanzetti, and John T. Scopes—are examined, not from the standpoint of legal technicality or courtroom drama, but in terms of law versus justice.

Economic Policy and the Regulation of Corporate Securities. Henry G. Manne, editor. Washington: American Enterprise Institute, 1969. Pp. 385.

This volume reproduces the proceedings of a symposium on the problems and questions of public policy and security regulation that was jointly sponsored by the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research and the National Law Center of the George Washington University.

Primer of Labor Relations, 17th ed. By the Editorial Staff of the Labor Relations Reporter. Washington: Bureau of National Affairs, 1969. Pp. ——. $2.00.

The latest annual edition of this primer offers a handy, succinct summary of labor relations law, including the effects of recent court decisions.

The Right to Treatment: A Symposium. Donald S. Burris, editor. New York: Springer Publishing Company, 1969. Pp. 229. $3.75.

The contributors to this volume examine the thesis that growing doubts as to the appropriateness of punishment for criminal behavior and the inclination to view such behavior as "sickness" call for viewing jails and prisons as facilities for treatment and not merely for retribution.
