THE LAW SCHOOL
(From September 1962 to December 1963)

I. ENROLLMENT

Opening enrollment in the fall of 1963 was 376, with 171 in the first year class. Both figures are the largest in the history of the school. Total enrollment in 1962 was 340 and the first year class numbered 139. There are nine women students—the largest number in recent years. Nonresidents of North Carolina comprise 25 per cent of the first year class and 18 per cent of the student body as a whole. The percentages for 1962 were, respectively, 12 and 11.

Eighty-seven per cent of the entering class earned A.B. or B.S. degrees prior to beginning law study. This compares with 77 per cent in 1962 and the previous maximum of 79 per cent in 1957.

One hundred and twenty-nine students, or 35 per cent, took all of their undergraduate work at other colleges or universities—this being slightly more than the 33 per cent in 1962. An additional 61, or 16 per cent (18 per cent in 1962), received some part of their undergraduate training elsewhere. Thirty-nine per cent of the first year class had all of their undergraduate work elsewhere and an additional 16 per cent had part of such work elsewhere.

Some 105 universities, colleges and junior colleges are represented. Other than the University at Chapel Hill, those with the highest representation are Duke University (33), Davidson College (30), and North Carolina State of the University of North Carolina (23). We have alumni of 78 universities and colleges located outside of North Carolina, scattered through more than half of the states, the District of Columbia and several foreign countries.

II. FACULTY

Professor Millard S. Breckenridge, who joined our faculty in 1927 decided not to remain with us for his final year of half-time teaching and has joined the faculty of the Hastings Law School in San Francisco. When the writer joined the law faculty in February, 1940, it was composed of seven other teachers. Through the academic year 1962-3 they all remained on the faculty and Mr. Breckenridge is the first to leave. His departure, therefore, brings a deep sense of personal loss to the writer and the remaining six senior members of the faculty. The entire faculty is deeply grieved at the loss of Mr. Breckendridge's exceptional professional services.

Two other members of the faculty are on leave during the current fall semester. Professor Seymour W. Wurfel is in South America, on a grant from the Ford Foundation awarded through the American Society of International Law, studying the legal aspects of foreign business in Colombia. Professor John P. Dalzell is a visiting professor at the Law School of Louisiana State University. Professor Hodge O'Neill of the Duke University Law Faculty is teaching Mr. Dalzell's section of the Contracts course during his absence.

Kenan Professor M. T. Van Hecke, Dean of the School from 1931 to 1941 and former President of the Association of American Law Schools, completed his full-time teaching in 1962-3 and is serving the first of his half-time years this year. Professor Robert H. Wettach, Dean of the School from 1941 to 1949, is serving his second and last part-time year at present.

As reported last year, Kenneth L. Penegar was appointed as Assistant Professor, effective September 1, 1962, but was given leave for the academic year 1962-1963 to serve as law clerk to a judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. Mr. Penegar, who has taken up his teaching duties this fall, was an associate editor of the Law Review and received the LL.B. With Honors in our class of 1960. In 1961 he received the LL.M. at Yale, where he was president of the organization of graduate law students. During Mr. Penegar's absence Assistant Professor Francis N. Millett, Jr. taught for us on a one year appointment before proceeding to Washington, D. C. to enter the practice. Mr. Millett's teaching for us was of very high quality.

There have been two additions to our faculty this fall. Associate Professor Ernest L. Folk, III graduated very high in his class at the University of Virginia Law School, served ably for three years with the United States Department of Justice, and taught for some three years on the law faculty at the University of South Carolina. Among other things, he made a study of the South Carolina statutes governing corporations comparable to the study in North Carolina which preceded enactment of our new corporation statutes.

Assistant Professor Robert G. Byrd was first in his class and editor-in-chief of the Law Review in 1956. He served for some three years as an officer in the Judge Advocate General's Corps of the Army and after his release served as an Assistant Professor of Public Law and Government on the staff of the University's Institute of Government. We are most pleased with these additions and are confident that these new men will be fine teachers.

During the summer of 1963 Professor Thomas W. Christopher served as a Visiting Professor at the Law School of the University of Utah.

In the fall of 1962, after serving since its founding as Director of the Institute of Government, Professor Albert Coates, necessarily retiring from that administrative post upon reaching the age of 65, returned to full-time law teaching. Associate Professor J. Dickson Phillips became Assistant Dean in the fall of 1962 and continues to serve in that capacity, with primary responsibility for scholarship matters and placement work.

The entire faculty contributed to or assisted in supervising the preparation of the annual survey of North Carolina case law published in the _Law Review_; and most members of the faculty participated in the planning of institutes for practicing lawyers.

Mr. Van Hecke continues to serve as a member of the North Carolina Employment Security Commission and the National Advisory Commission on Farm Labor. He also is serving a second year as Chairman of the Special Committee on Faculty Appointments of the Association of American Law Schools, and was a member in 1962 of the Association's Roundtable Council on Equity.

Professor Wettach continues to serve as an elected member of the Faculty Council and also served throughout 1962-1963 as Chairman of the Law Faculty Committee on Faculty Personnel—the latter requiring a great deal of his time. He contributed an article to the _Texas Law Review_, attended the annual meetings of the National Academy of Arbitrators and the Southeastern Conference of Law Teachers, and participated in several labor arbitrations.

Distinguished Alumni Professor Herbert R. Baer is the author of a book, _Admiralty Law of the Supreme Court_, published in early 1963 by the Michie Company of Charlottesville, Virginia. The initial sales of the book have been world wide. He also did exceptionally fine work as chairman of the planning group for the Institute on Medico-Legal Problems held for lawyers and doctors in Chapel Hill.

Professor Frederick B. McCall has continued his work as a member of the drafting committee, working under the aegis of the General Statutes Commission, preparing a re-draft of the North Carolina statutes governing the administration of decedents' estates. Professor Frank W. Hanft continues as Chairman of the North Carolina General Statutes Commission, which sponsored much major legislation before the 1963 General Assembly.

Mr. Christopher served during 1962 as Chairman of the Association of American Law Schools Committee on Racial Discrimination in Law Schools and as a member of the Editorial Board of the Journal of Legal Education. He was a lecturer at one of the institutes for practicing lawyers and has published or has scheduled for publication articles in this Review, the Utah Law Review, and the Journal of Public Law. He is also preparing a casebook on Food and Drug Law.

With Mr. Christopher as planner and moderator, eleven members of the law faculty participated in a series of television programs titled "With Due Process," designed to give laymen a better understanding of the role of law and lawyers in our society. Messrs. Phillips, Pollitt, Scott and Wurfel played major roles in the series.

Professor Daniel H. Pollitt continued his writing, with articles in this Review and a number of other legal periodicals. He attended the National Assembly on Teaching the Principles of the Bill of Rights and the Notre Dame Conference on Civil Rights Legislation, and at the latter presented a paper which is to be published in the Notre Dame Lawyer. He has served as a member of the Association of American Law School's Committee on Academic Freedom and Tenure and as a member of the American Association of University Professors Committee which is studying student academic freedom. He also serves as a consultant to the Chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, to whom he was a special assistant while on leave in 1961-1962.

Associate Professor and Law Librarian Mary W. Oliver continues to serve as an elected member of the Faculty Council, has been active in the work of the American Association of Law Libraries, and has represented the School at a number of professional meetings. She is carrying a half-time teaching load, giving the course in Legal Research and a seminar in Legal History. In the summer of 1963 she taught a course in Law Library Administration in the University's School of Library Science.

Assistant Dean Phillips continues to serve as a member of the Board of Governors of the North Carolina Bar Association and is Chairman of that Association's Committee on Administrative Law. He has also been working as a member of a drafting committee, under the sponsorship of the General Statutes Commission, re-drafting the North Carolina statutes governing civil procedure. He has recently been appointed to membership on the legislatively established commission to make recommendations to the 1965 General Assembly regarding the implementation of the recently adopted judicial article of the North Carolina Constitution.

Associate Professor John W. Scott, Jr. was a lecturer at one of the institutes for practicing lawyers and published an article in the Law Review. He prepared a brochure for the University on the tax aspects of charitable giving. With three tax courses and two seminars, he has the heaviest teaching load on the faculty.

Assistant Professor Richard E. Day served as reporter for the Civil Rights Commission on the factual aspects of desegregation in the public schools in North Carolina and his report has been published by the Commission. He also served as reporter on recent developments in antitrust law at the meeting of the American Bar Association's Section on Antitrust Law held in conjunction with the ABA's annual meeting in Chicago in the summer of 1963. His very comprehensive report has been published by the ABA and he has been invited to serve as reporter again in 1964.

Assistant Professor Dan B. Dobbs published an article in this Review and has completed a study of municipal immunity in North Carolina which is scheduled for publication by the Institute of Government. He also served as Chairman of the law faculty's Curriculum Committee during 1962-1963.

The faculty was represented during the year at the annual meetings of the Association of American Law Schools, the American Bar Association, the American Society of International Law, the American Maritime Association, the National Academy of Arbitrators, the North Carolina Bar Association, the North Carolina State Bar, the Southeastern Conference of Law Teachers, the American Association of Law Libraries, the Judicial Conference of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, and the Southern Trust Conference of the American Bankers Association. Representation at the last mentioned meeting was made possible by a grant from the Trust Division of the North Carolina Bankers Association. We were also represented at several section meetings of the American Bar Association.
III. The Library

During the year ending June 30, 1963, we added more than 4700 volumes to our collection, more than 1400 of them by gift. Particular mention should be made of gifts from Mr. T. Skinner Kitrell of Henderson (a collection of approximately 900 volumes), Mr. Charles Hensey and Johnson, Briggs, and Britt, of Lumberton (USCA and texts), Mrs. Charles W. Tillett of Charlotte (miscellaneous legal pamphlets), and Mr. Robert H. Schnell of the New York City law firm of Sattlee, Warfield and Stephens (law books and North Carolina Law Reviews). We are indeed grateful to these and other donors for their interest in and help to the Law Library.

During 1962-1963 we acquired some 4,500 microcards and now hold some 33,000 of these cards.

The complete re-cataloging of the Library's holdings is nearing completion. It now appears that we have a collection comprising more than 80,000 volumes, excluding volumes held in reserve to replace those currently being worn out by steady use.

In the summer of 1963 Miss Frances H. Hall, who had served for several years as Assistant Law Librarian, resigned to become Reference Librarian at the University of Chicago Law Library. Miss Hall's work for us was of most excellent quality. We are fortunate to be able to replace her with Miss Kathleen Cheape, who served in 1962-1963 as Law Cataloguer. Miss Cheape, in turn, has been replaced as Cataloguer by Mrs. Ruth Gambee.

The Law Library's photocopying service continues to be available to practicing lawyers.

IV. Curriculum

We continue to re-examine our curriculum in some detail each year. A new course in Judgments is scheduled for the spring semester. The study of partnership law heretofore included in the course in Business Associations, has been shifted to the course in Agency, and the former Business Associations' course is re-titled as Corporations. The course in Unfair Trade Practices, heretofore offered only in the summer, has been included (in addition to the course in Antitrust Law) in the regular curriculum.

We are offering a total of thirteen seminars: Advanced Tax Problems, Arbitration Law, Constitutional Law, Current Supreme
V. SUMMER SCHOOL

During the summer of 1963 our visitors were Professor Neil Alford of the University of Virginia (Future Interests), Professor William Fritz of the University of Texas (Damages), and Dean William F. Ryan of the University of New Brunswick, Canada (Trusts).

VI. ACADEMIC ACHIEVEMENT

The masthead of this issue lists those students who are current members of the staff of the Law Review.

Other student scholastic honors were as follows:

Nine students, on the basis of standing at the time of election in the top 10 per cent of the class of 1963, were elected to the Order of the Coif, an honorary society with chapters in some 40 odd law schools. These students, in the order of their standing, were Glen Bowers Hardymon, Jacob Donnell Lassiter, Joseph Stuart Friedberg, Borden Rhea Hallowes, Jerry Wofford Amos, Samuel Spruill Woodley, Jr., Herbert Arthur Sandman, Carter Gray Mackie, and Joseph Stevens Ferrell. Hardymon, Lassiter, Friedberg, Hallowes and Amos were also winners of the Chief Justice Walter Clark Awards, made annually to the five students who, at the end of their fifth semester at Law School, have the highest scholastic averages.

The degree of LL.B. With High Honors was awarded to Glen Bowers Hardymon. The degree of LL.B. With Honors was awarded to Jerry Wofford Amos, Joseph Stevens Ferrell, Joseph Stuart Friedberg, Borden Rhea Hallowes, Jacob Donnell Lassiter, Carter Gray Mackie, Mack Braswell Pearsall, Herbert Arthur Sandman, James Harold Tharrington and Samuel Spruill Woodley, Jr.

Borden Rhea Hallowes was the winner of the Block Improvement Award given to the senior who, having devoted himself most sincerely to his law studies during all of his law school career, makes the most constant improvement in academic work from the date of enrollment to the end of the fifth semester. The Award, established by Mr. Norman Block of the Greensboro Bar in memory of his father, consists of $300.
The U.S. Law Week Award was won by Mack B. Pearsall. This Award consisting of a year's subscription to U.S. Law Week, goes to the senior making the most satisfactory scholastic progress during his senior year.

Jacob Donnell Lassiter was the winner of the Lawyers Title Award of $100 to the senior demonstrating excellence in the study of real property law. The winner at this School is selected on the basis of achieving the highest average grade in the courses in Real Property, Future Interests and Titles.

Students winning the Bancroft Whitney Company and the Lawyers Cooperative Publishing Company prizes for the top grades in selected courses were as follows: Robert Gene Baynes (Trusts), Stephen Ross Burch, Jr. (Taxation I), Richard Lee Burrows (Contracts), Wade Rupert Byrd (Agency), Tom David Efird (Personal Property), Henry Thomas Greene, Jr. (Equity, Evidence and Negotiable Instruments), Borden Rhea Hallowes (Credit Transactions), John Sikes Johnston (Evidence), James Morris Kimzey (Business Associations, Labor Law and Trusts), Jacob Donnell Lassiter (Administrative Law), John Daniel McConnell, Jr. (Equity), Mack Braswell Pearsall (Credit Transactions and Taxation II), James Ethan Pell (Agency), Johnny Manly Reece (Contracts), Herbert Arthur Sandman (Debtors' Estates), James Maynard Talley, Jr. (Constitutional Law), Ralph A. White, Jr. (Business Associations and Evidence) and Samuel Spruill Woodley, Jr. (Conflict of Laws).

VII. THE LAW REVIEW

Volumes 40 and 41 of the Review have been the two most voluminous in the history of the publication. Thus, despite the recent increase in the subscription price, the Review in 1962-1963 incurred the most substantial deficit it has ever had. Unless other financial resources can be found, it may be necessary to increase the subscription price still further in 1964.

VIII. THE LAW STUDENT ASSOCIATION AND STUDENT ACTIVITIES

The officers of the Law Student Association for this academic year are Alonzo Brown Coleman, Jr., President; Frederick O'Neil Jones, Vice President; Robert Bobo Long, Secretary; William Irving Thornton, Treasurer; and Robert Gene Baynes, Chief Justice of the Law School Court. Committee Chairmen are Henry Neal
Pharr and Richard Dobbs Speight Dixon, Jr., Athletic Activities; Thomas Stephen Blackwell, Elections; Robert Bruce Smith, Liaison; Bernard Paul Pettie, Library; Thomas Alfred Gilliam, Jr., Lounge; Frederick O'Neil Jones, Orientation; Charles G. Rose, III, Placement; William Emmett Underwood, Jr., Public Relations; Anthony Eden Rand, Social Affairs; John Daniel McConnell, Jr. and George Thomas Turnipseed, Speakers and Film; William Martin Schneider, \textit{Tar Heel Barrister}; William James Richards, Jr., Desk and Study Space; Wayne Staton Bishop, Student Loan Fund; and James Robert Gordon, Placement Brochure.

Our students continue to participate in the affairs of the American Law Student Association, which is sponsored by and affiliated with the American Bar Association. From student dues, the Association also pays a part of the cost of the \textit{Tar Heel Barrister} and a part of the cost of the Senior Placement Brochure.

During 1962-1963 the Speakers Committee presented the following: Isaac T. Avery of Statesville, President of the North Carolina Bar Association; Dr. Hubert Winston Smith, Director of the Law-Science Institute of the University of Texas Law School; Professor Thomas Brown Smith, of the law faculty of Edinburgh University in Scotland and Visiting Professor at the Harvard Law School; Judge L. Richardson Preyer, of the United States District Court for the Middle District of North Carolina; and Mr. Robin L. Hinson, of the Rockingham Bar.

IX. \textbf{TH E \textit{G}RAHAM \textit{K}ENAN \textit{F}UND}

In December of 1962 the Law Foundation received $10,000 from Mr. Frank Kenan of Durham and the Sarah Graham Kenan Foundation. The donors indicated an intention that subsequent gifts would bring the total to $150,000. A special fund, The Graham Kenan Fund, has been established within the Law Foundation and, when the capital sum has grown sufficiently large, the income will be used to supplement the salaries of distinguished teachers of law to be designated as Graham Kenan Professors. Until such time, the income may be used in the discretion of the Law Foundation Council for scholarships for law students.

The late Graham Kenan, whose name the Fund and the Professorships will bear, was an alumnus of the Law School and an uncle of Mr. Frank Kenan and Mr. James T. Kenan of Atlanta, Georgia, both of whom are alumni of the University. As a student in Chapel Hill, Mr. Graham Kenan was a member of the Phi Society, the Order of Gimghouls and the S.A.E. Fraternity. He was orator of the freshman class, president of the sophomore class, president of the Athletic Association and president of his law class. He received his law license in 1905. He became a trustee of the University in 1915 and served on the Board and as a member of its Visiting Committee until his death on February 3, 1920. From 1906 until 1918 he practiced law in Wilmington during part of which time he was in partnership with the late Walter P. Stacy, who subsequently became Chief Justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court.

These gifts, which represent by far the largest in the history of the School, will undoubtedly play a most significant role in the future of the School. They will aid materially in the acquisition and retention of distinguished law teachers. To say that we are most grateful is putting it mildly, indeed.

X. ALUMNI ACTIVITIES

From October 1962 to November 1963 the officers of the Law Alumni Association were Albert J. Ellis, of the Jacksonville Bar, President; William Medford, United States Attorney for the Western District of North Carolina, and Charles G. Rose, Jr. of the Fayetteville Bar, Vice Presidents; and Mary W. Oliver, of the law faculty, Secretary-Treasurer.

Officers of the Law Foundation Council were William A. Dees, Jr. of the Goldsboro Bar, Chairman; E. K. Powe of the Durham Bar, Vice Chairman; Dan K. Moore of the Canton Bar, Secretary; and Mary W. Oliver, Treasurer and Assistant Secretary.

Since the Law Alumni Association was organized in the fall of 1952 the number of active members has shown an increase each year save one. As of this writing, the Association has received dues from 984 alumni, by comparison with 1,012 for all of 1962. This membership constitutes more than 50 per cent of the entire mailing list. Dues paid for 1963 to date total approximately $6700 and contributions from 235 individual alumni to the Law Foundation total almost $3600. This and other funds placed in the Foundation bring the capital fund of the Foundation to almost $27,000, exclusive of the Graham Kenan Fund elsewhere mentioned.

The increasing revenues of the Association and the Foundation enabled them to appropriate $5,000 for scholarships for law students in 1962-1963, by comparison with $3,500 in 1961-1962. As of this writing the annual meeting of the Association has not yet been held, but it is apparent that it will be possible to make another substantial increase in funds for scholarships for 1963-1964. Though the need for scholarship funds remains one of the critical needs of the School, the progress already made and in prospect is most encouraging.

In addition, the availability of the Alumni funds for purposes not supported by the state has been very helpful in developing a well-rounded school program. The Association has contributed materially to the publication of the Tar Heel Barrister, publication of the Placement Brochure, and travel expense of Law Library personnel, faculty members and students in attending national and regional professional meetings.

We are particularly indebted to the officers and directors of the Association and the officers and Council members of the Foundation for their efforts on our behalf. We also wish to express our deep appreciation to E. K. Powe of the Durham Bar, who has served most effectively and efficiently as Membership Chairman during 1963.

XI. INSTITUTES FOR PRACTICING ATTORNEYS

In this State the organized program for continuing legal education for practicing attorneys is under the joint sponsorship of the North Carolina Bar Association and the Law Schools at Duke, Wake Forest and the University. Under this program, an Institute on Medico-Legal Problems was held at this School in the fall of 1962 and an Institute on Practice Before the Clerk of the Superior Court is scheduled to be held here in the winter of 1964.

XII. BAR EXAMINATION RESULTS

In August of 1963 we had 77 of our 1963 graduates taking the North Carolina Bar Examination. Sixty-six, or 86 per cent, passed. Including repeaters, our passing percentage was 81.

The 1963 passing percentage is very close to our post World War II average, exclusive of the results on the 1962 Examination, which were relatively disastrous for graduates of this and other accredited law schools. Naturally, we welcome the fact that 1963 brought no repetition of the 1962 experience.
XIII. Placement

In January, June and August of 1963 we graduated a total of 89 students. Thirteen have entered military service. Five have opened their own law offices, twenty-seven are associated with lawyers or law firms, seven are law clerks to judges, five are in legal positions with corporations, six are in legal positions with governmental agencies, four are taking graduate work, three are with insurance companies, and six are in miscellaneous positions. There are thirteen (more than half of whom did not take or did not pass the North Carolina Bar Examination) from whom we have not yet received definitive information.

Our 1964 class will be larger than that of 1963. Present prospects are that many openings will be available to them, but we repeat, with emphasis, our annual request that our alumni and friends give us all possible assistance in locating good opportunities for our prospective graduates.

XIV. The Oliver Wendell Holmes Lecture

When Mr. Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, of the Supreme Court of the United States, died in 1935, at the age of 94, he left his entire residuary estate "to the United States of America." To administer this gift, the Congress in 1955 established the Permanent Committee for the Oliver Wendell Holmes Devise. One of the projects undertaken by the Committee is an annual series of lectures, to be given each year at a different university, by a lecturer of distinction, on a subject broadly related to Mr. Justice Holmes, his career and his thought.

The University of North Carolina was selected as the site for the 1963 lectures, the fourth in the series. We were most fortunate in securing Arthur E. Sutherland, Jr., Bussey Professor of Law at Harvard, as the lecturer. The lectures were given on October 1, 2 and 3 under the general title, "Apology for Uncomfortable Change, 1863-1963." The specific titles of the three lectures were, respectively: "Social Statics and a Restless People," "Education in the Obvious" and "To Grow More Civilized." They will be published by the Macmillan Company.

We are deeply indebted to Professor Sutherland not only for the very high quality of his lectures, but also for his contribution to classes and seminars in the Law School.
A notable event of the spring was the appearance of United States Senator Sam J. Ervin, Jr. as the principal speaker at the Hooding Ceremony for our June law graduates.

Another notable appearance was that of United States District Judge J. Braxton Craven, of the Western District of North Carolina, as the principal speaker at the Law Alumni Dinner in the fall of 1962.

In addition to the speakers, elsewhere identified, appearing under the auspices of the Law Student Association, a number of lawyers and others have delivered special lectures in our classes, participated in class discussion, or appeared before the legal fraternities. We are most grateful for the assistance they have given us. Those so appearing were: Governor of Mississippi Ross Barnett; Frank H. Bozarth, Vice President and Trust Officer of the Central Carolina Bank and Trust Company; Attorney General Wade Bruton; Paul Christopher, AFL-CIO Director of Organization for theMid-South; Robert F. Clodfelter, Vice President and Trust Officer of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company; Superior Court Solicitor Dan K. Edwards; Robinson Everett, of the Durham Bar; John Edward Davenport, Trust Officer of the First Citizens Bank and Trust Company; Samuel F. Forrester, Vice President and Trust Officer of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company; Nick Gali-fianakis, State Representative from Durham County; Eugene Gressman of the Washington, D. C. Bar; Thomas Harris of the Washing-ton, D. C. Bar; Robert L. Hines of the Charlotte Bar; Former Chancellor of the University Robert B. House; Milton E. Loomis, Trust Officer of the Central Carolina Bank and Trust Company; George Miller of the Durham Bar; Ralph Moody, Assistant At- torney General; J. E. Parker, Assistant Federal Representative, North Carolina Department of Labor; Joseph Rauh of the Wash- ington, D. C. Bar; Governor of North Carolina Terry Sanford; Former North Carolina Attorney General Malcolm B. Seawell of the Raleigh Bar; Braxton Schell of the Greensboro Bar; Robert Schnell of the New York City Bar; and Professor Frank Schwentker of the faculty of the University’s School of Business Administration.

We also wish to express our sincere appreciation to the North Carolina Industrial Commission for its continued cooperation in scheduling Workmen's Compensation Hearings in our courtroom for the special benefit of our students.

XVI. DEDICATION

It is our devout ambition that the School, through its Library, its student body, its faculty and its graduates may not only occupy but may truly deserve a place of steadily increasing importance in the field of legal education and in the life of our State.
